These men paid over large shipments of rotten coal and old discarded railroad iron, and, in exchange, were given the freight and on them by the railroad, the cost of their cars and extra. These are facts, known to gentlemen from Cincinnati, now under the sound of my shattered and feeble voice. But we have friends, honest men, and capitalists, with us, in Cincinnati, and they are represented here.

President Bristow, I would like to close my remarks. Let stockholders come forward and assume their duty, and all is safe. You, who own failed stock, have only to loan the company fifty cents on the share, and it will be returned to

On the following resolution was adopted: That the Secretary be directed to prepare a circular letter to be sent to President Faneuil and the members of the House, explaining the nature and object of the proposed meeting, and with this proceed to the execution of the same.

On the 11th March, 1840, the House, on the report of the Secretary, adopted the following resolution: Resolved, That the thanks of the House be given to the President's report and accompanying documents, for their generous and patriotic sentiment, as exhibited in their report to the meeting, and serious and protracted deliberations.

On motion of Mr. Burghardt, the thanks of the stockholders present were tendered to the Texas publican, for the ability with which its editor advocates the cause of the real, and the taking of this paper published at the west of action was commended to stockholders generally.

On motion of Col. Chas. S. Toml, of Ky., the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of the convention be rendered to the Hon. Jeremiah M. Mason, for the ability and dignity with which he has presided over the deliberations of this convention, and to the other officers of the convention.

Col. Golden then moved that the convention adjourn to the 25th day of December next, at which time it will re-assemble in the city of New Texas.

The president of the convention on arising to the motion of adjournment, made the following remarks:

The first half of the first shareholders be animated by the same spirit. They are persons, not the salt made—and feel it upon a single blow, may demand the full amount of the stock, and will not be satisfied until it will be saved—no more money and decisions be necessary, to raise, or rather, the entire amount, and it should all be paid by one day day. When we do not see the New Orleans, may outcries be more than sufficient. Then, I, you again.

The motion then being put, it was unanimously carried, and the convention adjourned to the 31st December, in New Orleans.

November 20th, 1854.

Editor of the Louisiana Courier.—As beautifully expressed by one of your intelligent correspondents

Courier is considered a magic mirror, into which we may look and see our future State offices," and it is so made, in an eminent degree, free, individual expressions from various parts of our renowned old commonwealth through its columns. But little has been said, however, respecting the office of Attorney General; therefore request the use of your columns for the purpose presenting to the consideration of the convention, to meet at that time-honored place, in the City of Philadelphia, the following of the

Dr. Wootley is too well known to make comment necessary. He is well known throughout the length and breadth of Kentucky, and known only to be loved by every true-hearted Kentuckian.— Noble and fearless manner in which he combated Know Nothingism when, it was sweeping over

State with great stride, and in '58 when it was its zenith, concurring for the same office, though defeated, endeared him to the hearts of the Democracy of Kentucky. His efficient labors in the great canvass of '58, when his eloquent voice was heard in almost every county in his own State, and even without its borders, cannot be too highly appreciated. It was to such fearlessness and efficient efforts that we are indebted for the final redemption of Kentucky from Ku-Klux Nothing thralldom.

He was not one of the general speakers of the day, but in the evening, when the several trains carried away living masses of human beings, and the crowd was somewhat reduced, Mr. Woolbridge was loudly called for. He came forth and responded in a style peculiarly his own, of lofty and thrilling eloquence, and while the assembled mul-

He was leaning forward in death in his eloquent words, one sterling old Hoosier was seen the same posture, his right hand over his heart, and when our orator wound up his glowing strain of eloquence, he thrust forth his hand from his bosom, indicating a perfect ecstasy of patriotic ardor, and exclaimed, "here, take my heart!" and simultaneously there burst forth from the multitude deafening shouts of applause. But enough of this.

He recently paid our gallant veteran and statesman, Gen. Wm. O. Butler, and hope that the time has arrived when the Democracy of Kentucky will compensate him for his past efficient and self-sacrificing labors in our glorious cause. Let us re-appoint Butler for Governor, Woolley for Attorney General, and the several other offices filled with material alike suitable, and we will carry Kentucky by a largely increased majority. Mark the prediction.

OLD HENRY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24, 1878.

The history of the claims of our citizens against foreign governments, called for by Senator Benjamin's resolution, is progressing rapidly at the Department of State, and will be presented to the late at the earliest possible day. The amount involved will be found to be very heavy, probably over fifty millions of dollars. That portion of the President's forthcoming message referring to Mexican affairs, will show a sane state of things. The claims of American citizens against Mexico amount to about fifteen millions of dollars.—Chas. N. Y. Herald.
